

Research on Diversity & Inclusion Lecture Series

“Institutionalizing Diversity In Research Universities: Major Issues, Centers and Strategies for the 21st Century”

Dr. Phillip Bowman

Director of the National Center for Institutional Diversity
University of Michigan

Monday April 25, 2011

4:00 pm

Stewart Center 314

Dr. Phillip J. Bowman is the founding Director of the National Center for Institutional Diversity (NCID) at the University of Michigan. Professor Bowman is a social psychologist with a strong interest in cultural diversity issues in research methodology, higher education, and pressing public policy challenges, including health disparities, urban poverty, family distress, joblessness, and affirmative action. He is the author or co-author of three books: Diversity and Coping: Multi-ethnic Perspectives on the College Transition, African American Fathers: Bridging Theory, Research and Public Policy and Globalization and African American Family Poverty: Challenges for the 21st Century. A former Rockefeller Foundation Fellow and Senior Ford Foundation Postdoctoral Fellow, Professor Bowman has received research funding from such agencies as NIMH, NIA, NSF, and HHS, and the Spencer Foundation.

Supported by the Office of the President and the Office of the Provost

Co-Sponsors:

Office of the Vice Provost for Diversity and Inclusion, Diversity Resource Office, Global Policy Research Institute, College of Agriculture, College of Education, College of Engineering, College of Health and Human Sciences, Krannert School of Management, College of Pharmacy, College of Science, College of Technology, College of Veterinary Medicine, The Graduate School and Purdue Libraries.