

ILLUMINATIONS

PURDUE UNIVERSITY

SIXTH Annual Series / 2004-2005

TUESDAYS, 4:30 - 5:45 pm

unless posted otherwise all fora are at

THE STONE CELLAR (The Mary Ford Room - Stone B-2)

Illuminations: Occasional interdisciplinary fora bringing together faculty and students across their primary interests and academic specialties. The event is sponsored by the English & Philosophy Ph.D. Program with other collaborating programs at Purdue University. All are welcome!

FALL 2004

September 21

Ruth Salvaggio, Director of Women's Studies & Professor of English & Women's Studies

"Language is the Flower of the Mouth": On Literary Words and Ecological Imperatives

October 5

Leonard Harris, Professor of Philosophy

The Great Debate: Alain L. Locke vs. W. E. B. Du Bois on the Aesthetic

Jürgen Habermas, Professor Emeritus, Johann-Wolfgang Goethe University, Frankfurt a/M

The Kantian Project of Cosmopolitan Law

Friday, October 15, 2004, Class of 1950 Lecture Hall, 4:30-7:00 p.m.

Biographical Introduction by Martin Beck Matušík, Professor of Philosophy at Purdue

For details on this special co-sponsored event go to the program web site listed below

November 16

Arkady Plotnitsky, Professor of English

The Parliament of Taste: Singularity and Community with Kant

SPRING 2005

January 25

Dan Smith, Assistant Professor of Philosophy

Deleuze and the Fold: What It Means to be Leibnizian Today

February 22

Joint presentation by Ann Astell, Professor of English, and Tom Ryba, Notre Dame Theologian in Residence, and Adjunct Professor of Philosophy and Jewish Studies at Purdue

"Genesis" and "Natality": Two Phenomenological Investigations

March 29

Sandor Goodhart, Associate Professor of English

The Möbian and the Literary

Special colloquium of The English & Philosophy Ph.D. Program
sponsored by President Arthur G. Hansen

The Problem of Evil

April 1-3, 2005

Topical Plenary Sessions and Concluding Roundtable Plenary, Stewart Center 214 ABCD

For details on this event go to the program web site listed below

To submit proposals for future presentations, contact Martin Beck Matustik,
Director of the English & Philosophy Ph.D. Program <mmatustk@purdue.edu>

<<http://www.sla.purdue.edu/academic/idis/phil-lit/>>

Purdue is an equal access/equal opportunity university