

Finding the Right Liberal Artist

Career and Intern Fair

Spring Semester

Purdue Memorial Union

Liberal Arts students will be eager to discuss the skills and qualities they can bring to your company or organization. We can also set up interview times for you. See the enclosed registration form for information and contacts.

Center for Career Opportunities

The CCO offers three options for locating the Liberal Arts candidate that is right for you.

- Post your job opening, free of charge, on the CCO website.
- Request a resume search (for a small fee) using the criteria you prefer.
- Interview on-campus

Contact the CCO at 765-494-3981 and press 3 for employer information. A CCO representative will assist you with your requests. You may also access their website at www.cco.purdue.edu

Liberal Arts Areas of Study

Anthropology

Communication

General; Interpersonal; Media, Technology & Society; Organizational; Public Relations & Rhetorical Advocacy

English

Creative Writing; English; English Education; Professional Writing

Foreign Languages and Literature

Health and Kinesiology

Athletic Training; Health & Fitness; Health Promotion; Health and Safety Teaching; Movement & Sports Sciences; Personal Fitness Training; Physical Education Teaching

History

Philosophy

Political Science

Psychological Sciences

Sociology

Speech, Language & Hearing Sciences

Visual and Performing Arts

Art History; Fine Arts; Photography; Art Education; Industrial Design; Interior Design; Visual Communication Design; Acting; Theatre

Interdisciplinary Studies

African American Studies; Asian Studies; Classical Studies; Comparative Literature; Film/Video Studies; Italian Studies; Jewish Studies; Linguistics; Medieval Studies; Religious Studies; Women's Studies

Purdue University
College of Liberal Arts

HIRING A
PURDUE
LIBERAL ARTIST

PURDUE
UNIVERSITY

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

DISTINGUISH yourself

Liberal Artists possess skills and qualities that are transferable to any profession.

Communicators

Writers

Critical Thinkers

Team Players

Why Hire a Purdue Liberal Artist?

The hallmarks of a Liberal Arts education at Purdue are communication, critical thinking and problem solving skills that mesh with a rich, multi-faceted perspective of the world.

The College of Liberal Arts includes the academic clusters of:

- art, values, and culture
- behavior, health and well being
- institutions and social change

Liberal Artists at Purdue learn to understand why, as well as who-what-when-how, and are challenged to think outside any box that exists.

Elizabeth Dexter-Wilson, M.S.
Career Development Director

Liberal Arts Career Development
Phone: 765-494-4358
Fax: 765-496-1910
E-mail: dextere@purdue.edu

Liberal Artists are Communicators

The nature of a Liberal Artist is his/her ability to communicate well. Coursework and assignments in Liberal Arts demand articulation, debate, negotiation and presentation. Students leave Purdue with sought after communication skills!

Liberal Artists are Writers

The ability to write is a skill developed early in the education of a Liberal Artist. Coursework and assignments constantly challenge students' grammar, editing, documentation and creativity. The writing demands on students include research proposals, critical analyses, creative interpretations, informational articles, press releases and business documents. Students leave Purdue with a strong writing background, enabling them to contribute to any profession.

Liberal Artists are Critical Thinkers

Liberal Arts coursework exposes students to research, analysis, data interpretation and the ability to present a clear and logical argument. Problem solving is the root of a productive and successful employee. Our graduates can bring these sought after skills to your company/organization.

Liberal Artists are Team Players

Coursework and assignments include group work in which the Liberal Artist develops the ability to negotiate, delegate, take leadership and identify when to step back. The value of working well with others is another sought after skill Liberal Artists can bring to employers.