The Purdue University Galleries offer a variety of art forms and exhibits throughout the academic year. Robert L. Ringel Gallery and Stewart Center Gallery feature artwork from regional, national and international artists as well as the permanent collection. These exhibits rotate every 6 weeks.

We are working to support the strategic plans of the university and the College of Liberal Arts, including a firm commitment to serving the needs of K-12 educators in the state of Indiana. Participatory art and writing opportunities, class visits to exhibitions, and professional development workshops for teachers are all vital to our plans to complement the work of regional educators.

Over 5,200 objects are in the permanent collection, including historic to contemporary prints, photographs, and works on paper; Art of the Americas, including Native American baskets, Pre-Columbian textiles and ceramics, and paintings, drawings and prints by the Mexican Modernists.

The Patti and Rusty Rueff Galleries have the unique perspective of being a teaching and research space for Purdue University students and faculty as part of the Patti and Rusty Rueff School of Visual and Performing Arts. Located in Yue-Kong Pao Hall, the Rueff Galleries offer exhibits and special events in service of the students and faculty, while also expressing perspectives that are national and international in scope. Exhibitions rotate every week or two throughout the Fall and Spring, providing a variety of projects and exhibitions in the areas of fine art, visual communications design, industrial design, interior design, theatre, dance, and music.

Visitors to Purdue Galleries may park in the Grant Street Garage across from the Purdue Memorial Union. Parking is free in “A,” “B” and “C” areas after 5:00 pm on weekdays and all day on weekends, unless otherwise posted. Parking is also available at metered areas on campus, unless the meters are designated for patrons of laboratories or medical facilities.

We recommend entering the Union from Grant Street. The Robert L. Ringel Gallery is located up the stairs on the Main floor, immediately to your left. To find the Stewart Center Gallery, proceed through the Union building, exit the far end and enter the next building, Stewart Center. You’ll find the gallery two-thirds of the way down the main floor hallway on your right.

Additional directions to Greater Lafayette and the Purdue University campus are available on the Purdue Galleries website, www.purdue.edu/galleries, under Tours and Visits.

Art Teacher Professional Day

Thursday, October 6th

Each year, the Purdue Galleries invites art teachers in regional K-12 programs to join us for a daylong session describing the upcoming year of exhibitions and events, renewing friendships and networking with other art educators.

Included this year will be presentations on the potential for Galleries involvement in on-site class presentations and a workshop with educator Bonnie Zimmer, in connection with the recently completed Patrick Dougherty natural materials installation “Sidewinder.”

Continental breakfast and parking passes will be provided for all participants.

Purdue Galleries will offer credit to educators looking for opportunities to earn Professional Growth Plan (PGP) points towards license renewal. By attending our Art Teacher Professional Day, you can qualify to earn one point for each hour of participation. Certificates of participation will be available for anyone interested.

If you are interested in attending, please contact Craig Martin at 765-494-3061 or cdmartin@purdue.edu to reserve a space.

Purdue Galleries' outreach activities continue to be recognized for their innovative approach to making art accessible to the region's young people. ArtCart provides no cost hands-on art opportunities to the North Central Indiana community – essentially a “book-mobile for art.” In a time when arts activities, instructors and field trips to cultural organizations are being eliminated from regional schools, Galleries is taking a proactive approach and offering arts activities with the assistance of Purdue students and community volunteers.

ArtCart was featured on a segment of “Boiler Bytes,” available for viewing here:

Living Graphic Novel is a special educational outreach activity being presented in collaboration with Civic Theatre of Greater Lafayette and Words on the Go. It offers the opportunity for students to develop short stories and illustrate them through the development of live “scenes” using actors, painted sets and framing devices, in the style of graphic novels or comic books. The project emphasizes literacy, writing skills, creativity and artistic design.

This year, the project will benefit from significant funding (to be announced) that will support a year's worth of diverse LGNs and documentation of these on a new blog-style webpage. For now, completed Living Graphic Novels can be viewed at the Purdue Galleries website and on the Living Graphic Novel Facebook page.

We are proud to enjoy the support of many friends and colleagues and we greatly appreciate their gifts.

University budgets have been necessarily trimmed the past two years, and Purdue Galleries will be challenged to continue presenting the same level of quality exhibitions and programming without help from our community.

Our regular exhibitions of Selections from the Permanent Collection are framed for display with funds from the Robert L. and Estelle Ringel Gallery Fund, established by the Ringels and supplemented with gifts by their friends and associates. Especially in these financially troubled times, gifts of any size can make a difference to visitors of all ages exploring the arts and culture in this region.

For more information on any aspect of giving to Purdue Galleries, please contact: College of Liberal Arts Development Office, 765-494-2711 or 800-991-1194, www.cla.purdue.edu.

GOING GREEN! receiving Purdue Galleries Announcements

Purdue Galleries is aiming to “go green” by reducing our paper printings. We encourage you to sign up for our e-mail announcements of Galleries exhibitions and events, essentially digital versions of our paper printings. Just send a message to “galleries@purdue.edu” with your name and e-mail address. Please indicate whether you currently receive printed announcements and wish to receive electronic announcements instead or if you are new to our mailing list.
