

Flaningam Award (evaluated by a committee of faculty referees)

The DOGE appoints a committee of three faculty who did not direct the seminar papers included in the pool of applications. Referees score each manuscript (1 to 5). The paper with the highest score receives the prize; on rare occasions the panel may recommend co-winners. Referees evaluate papers based on:

- Quality and originality of research
- Clarity of question and argument
- Quality of writing
- Significance of the piece
