

2025 DISABILITY STUDIES FALL LECTURE

JINA B. KIM

SMITH COLLEGE

Kim is a scholar of feminist disability studies and queer of color critique. She is an associate professor of English and the Study of Women, Gender, and Sexuality at Smith College in Northampton, Massachusetts.

Her new book, Care at the End of the World: Dreaming of Infrastructure in Crip-of-Color Writing, demonstrates how and why we need radical disability politics and aesthetics for navigating contemporary crises of care.

Jina's work has appeared in Signs, Social Text, GLQ, American Quarterly, South Atlantic Quarterly, Disability Studies Quarterly, and The Asian American Literary Review.

“Care at the End of the World: Healthcare Infrastructure and Wild Disability Justice Life-Writing.”

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 25

5:00-6:15pm, STEW 313

REALTIME CAPTIONING AND ASL INTERPRETATION PROVIDED

LECTURE IS IN PERSON; ZOOM ACCESS AVAILABLE: <https://tinyurl.com/yk4ychxf>

ACCESS QUESTIONS? CONTACT MAREN LINETT AT MLINETT@PURDUE.EDU

The Critical Disability Studies program appreciates the support of the American Studies program, the Dept. of Information Studies and the Office of the Associate Dean of Libraries.