"You are not a ‘Real’ Feminist"
Feminism in/and Popular Culture

A Panel Presented by WGSS

From Beyoncé to Nicki Minaj to Sheryl Sandberg, panelists will discuss contemporary deployments of feminism in popular culture and engage with the meanings and consequences of celebrity feminism. Panelists consider whether celebrity feminism can be “feminism without risk” and what is at stake for feminist academic inquiry as well as feminist advocacy and activism. Dr. Cheryl Cooky, associate professor of American Studies, will moderate the panel. Coffee and light refreshments will be served.

Graduate student panelists:

- Paula Ashe (American Studies)
- Bianca Batti (English)
- Juanita Crider (American Studies)
- Aria Halliday (American Studies)
- Jasmine Linabary (Communication)

Wednesday, Feb. 24 | 3-4:30 pm | BRNG B212
