PSRL SPRING LECTURE

PSRL is happy to continue the series of the last few years by sponsoring an event for 2015. This year’s event will be a lecture by Robert Newcomb.

Robert Newcomb
“Iberianism’s Lessons: Bridging Past and Future in Iberian Studies”
Thursday, March 26, 4:30 PM, SC 102

Robert Patrick Newcomb is Associate Professor of Luso-Brazilian Studies at the University of California, Davis. His research focuses on comparative approaches to the literatures of the Portuguese- and Spanish-speaking worlds, on Iberian studies, and on essayists and public intellectuals. Newcomb’s first book, Nossa and Nuestra América: Inter-American Dialogues, was published in 2011 by PSRL. He is currently completing his second book, Iberianism and Crisis in Late 19th and Early 20th century Spain and Portugal. His translation of Alfredo Bosi’s Brazil and the Dialectic of Colonization, is forthcoming from University of Illinois Press.
