The Image in the Text
Friday, November 22, 2013
PAO Hall (1197) 3-4 pm

The Art History faculty and students are delighted to invite you to a presentation by Professor Christopher J. Lukasik on the relationships between image and text.

Please join us, over a light tea, for what promises to be a stimulating conversation on Visual Studies and the interaction between art and literature.

Christopher J. Lukasik is an Associate Professor of English and American Studies at Purdue University. His research and publications focus on the literary and visual cultural history of the eighteenth- and nineteenth-century Atlantic world. He is the author of Discerning Characters: The Culture of Appearance in Early America (2010) and is currently working on a new book project entitled The Image in the Text: Intermediality, Illustration, and Nineteenth-Century American Literature. His published scholarship to date reflects a broad range of intellectual interests, disciplines, and media, including book illustration, trompe l'oeil painting, and contemporary technologies such as biometrics.

For more information: Art History Website

"Death's Pulpit," drawn and engraved by Alexander Anderson, after a print by Dutch poet and artist, Adrian Van Venne. [Also known as "Graduate School"]