African American Studies and Research Center is pleased to welcome you to the twenty-fourth annual Symposium on African American Culture and Philosophy. The series was designed to examine the cultural and philosophical dynamics of the African Diaspora in a global society. Each symposium allows for an extended analysis of a timely topic. We are excited about this year’s theme of “(Re)Visioning the Black Caribbean: Space, Place, and Voices.” We solicited plenary speakers to address three broad themes related to the Black Caribbean, as well as Afro-Latin/American Research:

Dr. Carole Boyce Davies, Cornell University—Anglophone

Dr. William Luis, Vanderbilt University—Hispanophone

Dr. Françoise Lionnet, University of California – Los Angeles—Francophone

We are particularly pleased to have Dr. Myriam Chancy, Louisiana State University Professor of English as our keynote speaker. Her remarks on Thursday evening will be an excellent compliment to a weekend of stimulating discussion. This will be a wonderful opportunity for scholars to engage in dialogue and to share research. The annual symposia are part of our ongoing efforts to enhance the discipline by providing a forum for scholarly interchange. We hope you find the symposium stimulating and that you will attend next year’s symposium, “New Directions in Feminism and Womanism in Africa and the African Diaspora,” which will be held on November 5—7, 2009.

The African American Studies and Research Center was established in the 1970s at Purdue University as the first interdisciplinary program in the College of Liberal Arts dedicated to the study of the history, culture, and literature of African Americans and the African Diaspora. The program offers an undergraduate major and minor in African American Studies. Courses are taught by African American Studies faculty from several departments throughout Liberal Arts at Purdue. Students may seek a major or a minor in African American Studies, or may take courses as electives. Additionally, students have the option of a double major in African American Studies and another academic area such as Communications, English, History, Psychology, and Sociology.

The major in African American Studies focuses on the experience of African Americans and their connections to the African Diaspora. Coursework addresses such topics as cultural practices, with reference to literature, history, and film as well as inequality as it relates to issues of nationality, race, class, and gender. The major provides students with a solid theoretical background and the research skills to pursue either graduate professional study or employment in business or public service. In addition, our faculty led study-abroad programs offer students the opportunity for global engagement that will benefit them upon graduation.

The research component of the African American Studies and Research Center sponsors numerous lecture series, symposia, and programs including the Harriet A. Jacobs lecture series, the W.E.B. Du Bois lecture series, a Talkin’ & Testifyin’ works in progress series, Conversations on the Diaspora, and our annual Symposium on African American Culture and Philosophy. The research component is structured to enhance courses and extend understanding of the African Diaspora.
