STUDY ABROAD
LONDON
And The Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade
13-19 March 2016
SA 10323/59000 1cr

Students will travel from March 13-19, 2016 and visit such places as the Greenwich Slave Trail Walk, the London, Sugar & Slavery Gallery of the Museum of Docklands, the British Museum, Lloyds of London, the Kendwood House, Guildhall of London, and various markets. Students will also meet with students from the School of Oriental and African Studies during our stay and enjoy a lecture by one of their faculty members.

An application is required for the study abroad course. Please visit the course webpage for more information: https://www.studyabroad.purdue.edu/programs/flyer.cfm?flyer=1218

AAS 37300: Studies in the African Diaspora
Crosslisted with ENGL 36500 and ENGL 59000 3cr

The primary goal of the course will be to study the writing of African people throughout the world in order to discover how these works serve as reflections of resistance to slavery, colonialism, neo-colonialism, and other means of oppression and domination. The primary goal of the course will be to study the history and legacy of London’s involvement in the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade. Students are encouraged to enroll in a linked spring break study abroad course in London for an additional credit (SA 10323/59000). Enrollment in the study abroad course is encouraged, but not required.

Required Texts: Discourse on Colonialism, The Classic Slave Narratives, Blonde Roots, Nervous Conditions, Things Fall Apart, Zong, Annie John, She Tries Her Tongue, and Fruit of the Lemon. Students are also required to watch the films, Belle & White Teeth and read essays and stories on Blackboard.

For more information contact
Dr. Venetria K. Patton
vpatton@purdue.edu

Informational scheduled for:
Wednesday, September 9,
10 AM – 3:30 PM
on Purdue Memorial Mall